

BROTHERS SAYS HE WAS TOLD TO USE FUNDS

Former Auditor Declares Commissioner Ordered Him To Pay Bills.

ON STAND MOST OF DAY
Deposition of Marion Attorney Introduced at Trial in Columbus.

Frank L. Brothers, former Marion auditor, testified today in his trial in Columbus, Ohio, that he was told by the state auditor to use funds for the payment of bills. Brothers, a superior officer, in the state auditor's office, in Columbus, Ohio, was the state auditor's representative in a news report from Columbus.

Brothers, who made the payments for the state auditor, said he was chief accountant in the state auditor's office. He said he was told to use the funds for the payment of bills. He said he was told to use the funds for the payment of bills.

The prosecution charges Brothers deposited division funds in a personal account at a Columbus bank instead of placing the money with the state treasurer as required by law.

Brothers, after he (Reinhart)
was told to use the funds for the payment of bills, said he was told to use the funds for the payment of bills. He said he was told to use the funds for the payment of bills.

He was emphatically told the money was for the payment of bills. He said he was told to use the funds for the payment of bills. He said he was told to use the funds for the payment of bills.

Brothers said that he had received for all bills that he paid and he placed cancelled checks for those bills, since June 1934, in a safe.

On Stand All Day
Brothers was expected to be on stand most of the day.

SUIT NEARS JURY

The $25,000 alienation of affections suit, brought by Mrs.
Margie Heaton Dill (above) against former United States Senator Clarence Dill of Washington and Mrs. Grace Dill, her mother-in-law, neared completion today at Mt. Vernon, O.
(Associated Press photo).

The act is designed to extend power lines into rural areas with long term loans to farm groups, municipalities, and private companies.

While private concerns can borrow, a provision of the new law says that farm associations, cooperatives and other non-profit farm units should be given preference.

Morris L. Cooke of Pennsylvania was nominated for a 10-year term as rural electrification commissioner almost immediately after Roosevelt signed the $40,000,000 farm power authorization for the same number of years.

Cooke will administer the extensive program provided in the new law which Sen. Norris, Republican of Nebraska, was author. His nomination must be confirmed by the senate.

He also disclosed, in response to questions, that he had had conferences with Fr. Charles E. Coughlin, leader of the National Union for Social Justice, and with Gerald K. Smith, organizer of the Long "Share-the-Wealth" program, but said an alliance to form a third party was not projected now.

Others in the conference were Senators Wagner, Democrat of New York, Wheeler, Democrat of Montana, Schwellenbach, Democrat of Washington, Minton, Democrat of Indiana, Norris, Republican of Nebraska, and Shipstead, Farmer-Labor of Minnesota. Felix Frankfurter of the Harvard Law school, a presidential consultant, was there also, but Norris said he was just a "listener."

Norris, who left an hour and a half before the others, said there had been "a general discussion." Wagner said "we talked about government and a lot of other things, but it was more of a general gathering."

It was Shipstead who recalled that something had been said about the supreme court's decision which invalidated the Guffey coal control act, but the Farmer-Labor senator could not remember what it was.

No conclusions reached Hopeful newspapermen then asked him if any conclusions were reached, to which he replied, "Did you ever see any conclusions reached at any conference?" Speculation had been aroused because of the fact that the senators, while representing four parties, all lean toward the new deal.

There was a belief that pending legislation was not the principal subject of the conference agenda because most of the legislative parleys at the White House include only Democrats.

President Signs Norris Bill For Power on Farms

Electrification Measure Au-

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, May 21—President Roosevelt signed today the Norris bill authorizing expenditure of $40,000,000 over the next 10 years for rural electrification.

The first year of the Reconstruction Finance Corp. would be authorized to make loans up to $50, rural electrification administra-

SUES FOR $200,000

One of the most famous stars of the silent screen, Mary Miles
Angeles court, broke back into the headlines when she and her mother launched a legal action seeking to recover $200,000 from a Pasadena, Calif., brokerage firm they claim should be held responsible for defalcation of one of its former employes with whom the ex-star had entrusted her fortune. (International News photo).

The committee turned to this line of inquiry after an angry session yesterday in which Townsend declared that many of the questions directed at him were "nonsense."

Other features of yesterday's hearing included testimony by Townsend that rich and poor—the Morgans, Rockefellers, du Ponts and William Randolph Hearst as well as penniless citizenry—would be eligible for the old age pension if they would agree to spend their money.

Questioned by committee members, the doctor agreed that the transactions tax suggested to finance the pensions would fall on the poor, but he added:

"Taxes always fall on the poor because there are so many of them, but remember, everybody will pay the tax on all transactions."

He also disclosed, in response to
ences with Fr. Charles E. Cough-

TWO MONTHS' RELIEF BILL PRESSED DESPITE OPPOSITION BY DAVEY

PLAN TO BOOST FIRM TAX WINS

Senators Agree to Increase Corporation Levy but Refuse To Raise Income Charges.

ACCORD LABELED VITAL

Calls for Flat 18 Per Cent Rate on Company Earnings and 7 Per Cent on Surplus.

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, May 21—Whip-pling all but one member into line, the senate finance committee today reached agreement on a compromise plan for increasing corporation taxes but scuttled a proposal, at the loss of considerable revenue, for boosting the normal income tax rate.

Moving along swiftly after days of delay, the committee thus reached accord on the vital part of the revenue bill.

The compromise would call for a flat 18 per cent tax on corporation income, a flat 7 per cent on income withheld from distribution, exemption of $1,000 from corporate earnings making no more than $20, 000 a year, and retention of the present capital stock and excess profits taxes.

Smiling broadly, Harrison said the committee had made "very good progress" and he expected it to be able to report out a bill early next week.

So greatly at odds was the committee during today's session that some members at one time threatened to leave the committee chamber.

One vote divided the members 11 to 8.

Harrison said the compromise corporation tax plan would raise "somewhere over $600,000,000" and said the treasury had been asked to submit exact estimates as to the yield.

The indication was it would fall considerably short of the $623,000,000 of permanent revenue sought by President Roosevelt to meet the cost of the new farm program and prepayment of the bonus. Harrison had no definite reply when he was asked where the committee would get the remainder of the money.

To Bolster Penalty
The committee, he said, also agreed to strengthen a section of existing law providing for penalty taxes on corporations which build up "unreasonable surpluses."

Also approved was an amendment by Sen. Langerman, Democrat of Connecticut, to permit insurance to be taken out, payable to the government, for meeting state taxes. The amount of the policy would not be counted to the estate unless it was greater than the estate tax.

The plan would make dividends subject to the present normal income tax of 4 per cent, but the committee rejected suggestions for boosting the latter to 5 per cent.

BARTERED BRIDE

Conflicting versions of an unusual life drama were revealed in a Chicago court when pretty Anna Marie, 15-year-old Gypsy girl, testified that her father sold her to her first husband for $2,000 and then sought to collect another fee when she obtained a divorce and remarried.

Detroit, charged that his daughter had stolen $3,000 from him. (International News photo)

Paris and Rome Fight Over Priest Now in Ethiopia

By The Associated Press
PARIS, May 21—Joseph Paul Boncompagni, acting foreign minister, declared tonight Italy's expulsion of a French priest from Ethiopia was "unacceptable" and an authoritative source said France would protest vigorously.

The sudden development in the French-Italian situation came shortly after the French government refused to withdraw colonial troops from Djibouti, a strategic center on the railroad from Addis Ababa to the sea.

The case of Monsignor Andre Jarusseau, 78-year-old leader of Roman Catholic missions in Ethiopia, aroused intense official interest.

The aged priest, who had been in Ethiopia 50 years, ministering especially to native lepers, was ordered out of the country by Italian authorities yesterday on charges of having made "hostile demonstrations against Italy."

"The sole question to discuss," Paul-Boncompagni declared, "is whether the expulsion was justified. We think it was not."

RISE IN STOLEN CAR IS SHORT FOR YOUTH

Drives Into Tree and Over Hedge Within Block of Parking Place.

An attempted automobile theft ended abruptly yesterday afternoon when the driver who took the car ran into a tree less than a block from where the car was taken. The only damage to the automobile was a marred fender. The driver, who, police said, was a 16-year-old Marion boy, fled from the scene of the accident but was picked up near his home a short time later by the officers.

GOVERNOR ASKS LONG TERM AID

Says Short Programs Would Cost $3,000,000 to $4,000,000 More Each Year.

TWO MEASURES OFFERED

Yoder Claims Passage Would Require Session Lasting Until After Law Expires.

By The Associated Press
COLUMBUS, O., May 21—Senate leaders pushed action today on a new "stop-gap" relief program in the face of Gov. Martin L. Davey's avowed opposition to temporary measures.

Gov. Davey submitted a $11,300,000 program designed to provide for Ohio's needy until Jan. 31 last night and to the legislature in a special message that stop-gap legislation would cost from $3,000,000 to $4,000,000 more a year than a long-term program.

Sen. Bernhard Donovan (Democrat) of Lucas county, immediately introduced identical bills in the house and senate to carry out his program. But Senate Minority Leader Paul P. Taylor estimated that committee could not complete action on these bills until June 20, 10 days before expiration of the present relief law.

Favor Temporary Plan Yoder declared party leaders in the house were friendly to the temporary plan, which would extend from May 15 to July 15 the deadline for the counties to repay funds borrowed from the $3,000,000 relief fund. A bill incorporating the stop gap program was introduced in the senate.

Both houses considered the bills today.

Under Davey's program, counties would have to pay the balance of of revenue from the utility excise tax for the next eight years, making an estimated $2,000,000 available for relief.

All counties would be required to issue their Carey act bonds, making another $1,000,000 available. Re-appropriation of the $3,000,000 relief fund of the present law, from which only $550,000 has been borrowed, reappropriation of $1,000,000 available from present funds for June and July and $1,000,000 "available under the present law and not yet allocated," plus $1,500,000.

$2,000,000 More Available Davey said another $2,000,000 would be available from the general revenue fund, but he indicated it would not be needed if there was "an unprecedented pick-up in business," which would lighten the relief load.

Davey's bill would create a new state relief commission to allocate funds on a basis of need instead of on 1933 relief expenditures, as the present law provides. The commission would have the power to "determine the total amount which may be expended within any county in any month, regardless of the source from which such funds are derived."

Counties would pay with their own money one third of their June and July relief requirements and one half for each month following. County commissioners would administer the funds.

Senate leaders deferred action on a proposal to override the veto of $125,000 for a new school building at the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphan Home in Xenia.
A phase of the governor's program which is believed to be unconstitutional by several lawyer members of the senate is that which provides that counties in which Carey act bonds have been issued without effort will be made to repay the utility excise tax for an eight-year period.

These attorneys declared that counties which cannot now issue Carey act bonds without a vote of the electorate, by the name taken cannot issue notes that would be general obligations.

No Formula Possible Declining that he formed upon which the present law was drawn made state monies available to many counties which did not need it, the governor asserted that it was literally impossible to provide for these relief needs on the basis of an absolute and invariable formula.

He admitted objections may be raised to his proposal that counties be required to contribute to their own relief needs, then added:
"But it is the unanimous opinion of all those familiar with the relief problem that a reasonable contribution must be required.
First, it would be somewhat unfair to the other counties of the state if this is not done. Second, it is extremely easy to spend the money that is received from outside sources, and until the counties are required to make some contribution, the costs and put this relief program on a practical and sensible foundation."

The governor, apparently advised of the senate's plan for stop-gap

MINISTER AWAITING VERDICT FROM SYNOD

Accused on Moral Charges Following Divorce from Bucyrus Woman.

By The Associated Press
MANSFIELD, O., May 21—Rev.
R. N. McMichael, awaited today the decision of a disciplinary committee of the Ohio synod of the Lutheran church which heard testimony of eight witnesses concerning the charge against the minister of "conduct incompatible with the moral purity of the ministerial office."

The committee promised its decision would be made today.

The charge against Mr. Mc-Michael involved his divorce and remarriage. The complaint was brought by Dr. Joseph Sittler, president of the Ohio synod, who alleged that the minister was divorced from the former Mildred Snyder of Bucyrus in 1932 on grounds of cruelty, which are not recognized by the church.

Mrs. Mildred Snyder McMichael of Carrollton, Mich., his divorced wife, was one of the witnesses.
Other witnesses were his present wife, Mrs. Gertrude McMichael, his mother and a sister-in-law.

Conviction on the charge would make the minister subject to dismissal.

Mr. McMichael offered to resign after the charges were brought, but the congregations of the two churches he serves refused to accept the resignation and gave him a vote of confidence.

REPORT CIRCUS TAX CHARGE TO STATE

Inspector Here Says He Received Complaints on Rice Bros. Show.

State tax examiners here have made a report to the Ohio tax commission that Rice Bros. circus made a state and federal tax assessment of 25 cents each on complimentary reserved seat tickets when the show played Marion yesterday. Carroll W. Davidson, tax examiner here, announced today.

Mr. Davidson said the report was made in a letter mailed this afternoon to C. R. Johnson, chief of the excise tax section of the state tax commission, and that a suggestion was made that examiners check the circus this week while it is still playing in the state. The show is in Urbana today.

Mr. Davidson said that had complaints of the 25 cent charge been brought to his attention yesterday and had he found them justified he would have stopped the practice immediately and reported the matter to his superiors in Columbus.

Holders of complimentary reserved seat tickets complained that a charge of 25 cents was made at the state and federal tax booth on the outside of the "big top" and that in the lobby on the inside a charge of 10 cents additional was collected in some cases.

Mr. Davidson said the inquiry because made would seek to determine if the circus management is within its rights in charging 25 cents at the tax booth.

General admission prices at night were 50 cents and reserved seats 75 cents, bringing to 75 cents the total price for a reserved seat. Examiners said that the charge price scale the federal tax to holders of complimentary reserved seats would be eight cents and the state tax would amount to about three cents. A tax and service charge of 15 cents would be ample to cover the actual tax and allow the management a small amount for its service in collecting it, Mr. Davidson said.

He said that because the tax commission will send special examiners to the circus before it leaves Ohio.

Mr. Davidson explained that receipts at circuses are checked daily by examiners to determine the amount in tax due the state and federal government, but that the accounting is not made until the following day. He said he checked on the amount of tax due from receipts taken in by the Rice Bros. show at Gallon, where it played Tuesday, and that the Marion receipts would be checked by examiners at Urbana. He pointed out that the tax booth is operated by an employee of the circus and not by the tax commission.

The circus which showed at the Aronhalt lot and drew approximately 2,500 at the night performance was considerably below the standard of other small circuses which have played here in recent years.

Boys' Longing To Visit Lake Erie Is Thwarted Here

The desire of two Columbus boys, ages 10 and 11, to see Lake Erie rather than attend school on a warm spring afternoon, led them to be held here yesterday as runaways. After riding about 34 miles as stowaways on a car whose driver was unaware of their presence, the boys' adventure ended near Waldo when E. C.
Mackay, of 409 West Columbia street, spotted them clinging to the side and rear of the speeding automobile.

Mackay, who is on leave of absence as captain of police here, saw the boys clinging to the car as it passed through Waldo. The one youth was riding on a rear bumper and the other was crouched on the right running board and holding to the door handle. Mackay halted the car after trailing it a short distance.
The boys ran when the car, driven by a woman whose name was not learned, stopped. They gave up after Mackay pursued them on foot.

The driver of the car said the boys must have stowed away when she left Columbus, because she had not stopped enroute. They admitted their intention of visiting Lake Erie when questioned by Mackay when he brought them to Marion. They were turned over to police here who are holding them for their return to Columbus.

Married Comrades

BY ADELE GARRISON

Dicky and Madge Get Away on Trip To See Marion.

DICKY'S remark that he wanted to get away before daylight, so that the "birds on the hill wouldn't jump our getaway," sent an icy feeling shivering down my spine by the reminder of the continued presence of the interlopers who suspected that my father was not critically ill in the farmhouse, as we were pretending.

"Is there any chance that they will find out about our going now?" I asked, trying to keep a quaver out of my voice.

Dicky shot a keen look at me.
"Not a chance in the world," he said reassuringly. "The guards around the farmhouse are tight enough to see that nobody gets within seeing distance of our car as it leaves. And there are men, as you know, on the tails of the birds up there. They've reported them sound asleep."

"I'm not afraid of them trailing us," he went on. "But if we started in the daytime, they could lamp us through their field glasses. Then they'd probably try to trail us. But they won't," he added hastily, as he saw me wince, because we're going to be well on our way before daylight doth appear."

"How are we going?" I asked.

Ready for Trip
By the turnpike, until we come to the road just before Sag Harbor, that skirts around to the shore, and then by that new road through the back woods to Shinnecock Bay," he said. "That's deserted this time of the morning, and we'll be sure not to meet a soul that knows us. We'll make good time, too. We ought to be at Riverhead by daylight."

"We won't have to stop at all, will we?" asked. "Is the car all serviced?"

"Yes, I think Jim rechecked my litany, 'oil, water, tires, battery and gas,' all the way to the service station," he chuckled. "It's as near proof as a car can be. And after this breakfast of Katie's, I shan't want to eat again until long after we reach Sackettsville."

"So there's no reason at all," he concluded. "Why you shouldn't attain your objective of seeing Marion for an hour before he classes begin."

"Providence permitting," I murmured, and Dicky grinned.

"Feel better for that?" he asked, and I nodded vigorously.

"Well, eat your breakfast," he said practically, setting me a noble example of trencher work, and I obeyed him. We finished well with the limit we had set ourselves, and five minutes later I was sending the car down the road at a good rate of speed.

"I want you to drive the first half of the journey," he said, and I needed no explanation why he had thus decreed. For I saw a bulge in the pocket of his light overcoat, which I knew meant a revolver. I knew that he wished me to drive so that he could be free to defend us if the plans should go awry and the men on the hill should get away from their watchers and attempt to attack us.

But Providence was surely with us. Not one untoward incident marred our journey. When we were about 20 miles from New York, on the Long Island side, I stopped the car at his request, and we exchanged seats. He did not say that all danger was over, nor did I voice it, but the tension seemed to leave both of us, and we began to enjoy the early morning sunlight dappling the trees and grass of the countryside.

"Do you want to sleep?" he asked me, and grinned at my decided negative.

"All right, all right," he drawled, and on we went, through the park-ways to the big double boulevard, over the bridge, across the city, down the elevated highway, and thence, by the Holland tunnel, to the Jersey side.

When my wrist watch said seven o'clock I asked Dicky to stop the car at the next telephone, which was open, and he pulled up at the next open garage.

"I went to the telephone with a lot of trepidation, for I knew how rigid are the rules of Whitney Hall, and I hated to disturb the stately housekeeper."

"But Mrs. Barnum's voice when I saw I finally connected with her was so warm and friendly, and so sympathetic, that I was almost sorry Mrs. Crake had not been there."

"Why Mrs. Crake?"

VETS' ORGANIZATIONS MAKE BONUS PLANS

V. F. W. To Assist Postmaster in Identifying Marion Veterans.

Arrangements are being made here for local veterans' organizations to assist the postal department when distribution of soldiers' bonus bonds starts, the middle of June, it was announced today.

Preliminary plans for assistance from the veterans were discussed today by Postmaster L. L. Lam-born and D. J. Finley, post post commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars post. Veterans who are to get their bonus bonds must be positively identified before the bonds will be turned over to them and it is planned to have members of the veterans organizations at the postoffice to identify their members.

Further arrangements for payment of the bonus will be announced here within the near future.

Funds From Poppy Sale Put to Good Use Here

Contributions of Marion citizens to the annual poppy day sale, sponsored by the Woman's Auxiliary to Bird-Mechin's Post No. 162, of the American Legion, find their way into the homes of less fortunate veterans to help tide the family over a rough financial spot, keep children in school put coal in the bin and food in the family cupboard, the reports of Mrs. T. E.
Andrews, welfare chairman of the auxiliary, show.

Proceeds of the sale of 3,500 poppies to be conducted Saturday by the auxiliary will go in full the depleted coffers of this department, upon which there has been a continuous drain through the last year.

The money which passed through the department headed by Mrs.
Andrews has been used to make some unfortunate person happier and not one cent has been used for overhead. Mrs. Andrews said in discussing her work. The money required for gas and other expenses incurred in the distribution of this fund has been paid by the auxiliary.

During the last year Mrs. Andrews has made about 40 calls in the various parts of the city, visiting about 150 children. One hundred sixteen glasses of jelly have been distributed, four tons of coal provided and many cans of fruits and vegetables have brought comfort and cheer to dozens of homes.

At Christmas time baskets were distributed to 13 families in which there were about 60 children, at a cost of nearly $50, and at the same time necessities in the form of shoes and clothing were provided at a cost of more than $25. Grocery orders have been provided in several cases in families not receiving permanent relief, and in need of a little help through a desperate financial situation.

In cases where Mrs. Andrews found the difficulty likely to extend over a long period of time, she reported, she appealed to, and always received assistance from Miss Lillian Plack of the Marion County Red Cross chapter and from the soldiers' commission of which George T. Gerau is chairman, and other sources.

The department received help from time to time through the contribution of used clothing and in some instances, where children were going to school during the winter months and only in overalls or other light clothing, clothing was purchased when there was none available through contributions.

BY MARGARET BELL HOUSTON

"I thought afterwards of your grandmother, sir, but it was not like her. The room was dim, merely the night lamp. I saw only that she was slender, and beautiful in a shadowy sort of way, and all in white, with something white and misty around her hair."

"Did she speak?" Dirk asked.

"She did not, sir. She merely looked at me, and I at her. Then instantly I begged pardon, and closed the door. In the hall it occurred to me that she might have wished to give an order since she had rung the bell. I turned back, and knocked, and opened the door again. But she was no longer there."

"Did you look?"

"I did, indeed, sir. Your grandfather returned home as I entered the room, and he helped me to search."

"He was as mystified as you?"

"Naturally. The figure had been there, and now it was gone."

"He believed you, of course," said Dirk.

"I am not so certain," replied Timothy.

"I suppose he laughed," Dirk suggested. "He was rather bluff, I remember."

"Well, yes, he laughed...when I spoke of the scent."

"The scent?"

"There was a sort of perfume, sir, the faintest, possible, when the figure was in the room. Embarrassed though I was, I could not but notice it. Even after the figure had disappeared the fragrance seemed to linger. I spoke of it, and that was when he laughed, and opened a window."

Dirk thought of Hope commanding Martin to search the room. Could there be some other pocket in that wall, some larger panel behind which a human being might hide himself?

"And you never saw the ghost again?" Dirk asked.

"No, sir. So far as I am aware, she has never reappeared. But Martin's account of the voice, and no tracks about the house..."

"It sounds like the same thing," agreed Dirk.

However, the voice that Martin had heard was that of a man. Obviously, Martin had not mentioned this fact to the servants, and the sex of the tower-ghost was not a point of discussion below stairs.

Alone, Dirk stood thinking of the revolver.

Why did she possess it, why did she want it, if she was not afraid? It was a recent acquisition, that he knew, for he had looked into the safe one night himself. Surely she would not have felt the need of such a weapon if she had been in league with the sounds Martin had heard.

If she would only confide in him! She had yelled herself stupidly since she had caught him watching her in the mirror that night. Perhaps she had never really disclosed herself to him. But now, if he moved carefully, might he not surprise her trust, her confidences?

He went downstairs, and knocked on Hope's door.

The door opened almost at once, as if she were expecting some one. Mary, probably, who, Nora said, was the only one she would see. Having opened the door, she stood without moving, looking at him.

"She was fully dressed, or was it? Indeed a sort of negligee she wore? ...a pale yellow dress, girlish just below her breast, and trimmed about the throat with white fur. Her hair was rumpled, a tumble of dark curls, and she hugged a little shawl of painted silk about her as if she were cold."

Even in the dusk, Dirk could observe the change in her, the pallor of her face, the almost tragic shadows beneath her eyes.

"May I come in, Hope?"

She drew back, admitting him. When he had entered, however, she did not sit down, but stood beside the bed, her hand resting on the great carved post that somehow looked like a totem pole beside her, so immense and ancient it was.

Every doubt, every torturing suspicion, melted at sight of her, flowed from his mind as if it had never been. He knew only that she was ill, that, seeming only to touch the bed beside her, she really braced herself against it, otherwise she could not have stood.

Dirk snella cigarette, tomorrow, in Hope's room.

HAWAII PLANTS NUTMEG

By United Press

HONOLULU—As a rival to Connecticut, America's "nutmeg" state, Hawaii has started to compete as America's leading nutmeg territory. The first seeds, in an effort to develop a new tropical crop here, have been planted.

Timothy came, a bit disturbed. He did not doubt that Nora on the run. No, sir, he said, he never spoke of the incident, and he had found Martin to be reluctant regarding the matter. He had heard, people were too ready to misinterpret.

A knock was still in Timothy's head, for he had responded hurriedly to Dirk's bell. In the dusk of the room he wadded the bit of old nervously, his pale old eyes staring Dirk, his words falling rapidly.

"The grandfather, sir. You know I was very fond of your grandfather. It was he who brought me over from my home in Gainsborough."

"I know. And you were young."

"Right, sir. This did not happen at that time. This did not happen to me. Your grandmother died. I was a child at the time, sir... much more than a baby."

It was a summer's night, and very still when there came a sound about 12 o'clock...like your grandfather's bell...directly to my bed, sir.

"I did not wake Mary, so I must have dreamed it. But I got up, and went down the stairs, and opened the door. He was not there. But standing in the room was a figure, a lady, sir, all in white."

"At one you knew?" asked Dirk. Timothy looked at him.

"It was a ghost, sir."

Dirk felt shocked, and properly.

"I know," he said. "But did you see any?"

"No one heard it but you?"

"Not that night, sir. But others have heard the lower ghost. Timothy has seen it."

So puzzled in some confusion, apparently she had not meant to run Timothy into the discussion. Timothy has seen it," Dirk repeated. "What?"

"That when I could not tell you, it was years ago. He does not speak of it, sir. Mary told me."

"All right, Nora. That will do."

Nora's hand moved to the door.

"May I ask you, sir, if you will be dining at home?"

"To an hour," said Dirk.

What Nora had done he rang for Timothy. Their shadowy world revolving so near, had suddenly become real to him. A ghost. It seemed a proper denizen of that world.

SCHOOL BASEBALL IS REVIVED HERE

Harding High and Edison Pupils Form Team; Win Two Games from Morral.

Indications of a growing interest in baseball is evidenced by the fact that a high school team sponsored and backed by the students themselves, is holding regular practice sessions and is meeting out-of-the-city opponents in four scheduled contests. The team, composed of Harding High school and Edison Junior High pupils, played their first game last Friday afternoon when they defeated the Morral High nine, 16 to 0. Last night they journeyed to Morral and were again victorious 9 to 0. The team was organized by student initiative, and equipment has been supplied almost entirely by the players. Upon the request of the students C. H. Hannan, coach at Edison Junior High school, has directed the squad's efforts.

Two games remain to be played on the schedule of the student team. Friday night they will meet Delaware on a diamond here and the following Tuesday will go to Delaware. Members of the improved team are Forest Sharrack, captain of the 1935 Harding High football team; Wilbur Evans, Guy Lewis and Lamar Faust; all Harding pupils and Tex Frazier, William Scott, Harold Stafford, LeRoy Everly, James Huffman, Richard Dettler, Lewis Wood, Robert Dunlap, Eugene Lashley, Clifford Willis and David Williamson.

YELLOW RACE STILL FLOWS ON

Coddess of Mercy on Bay Island Still Watches Over Oriental Influx.

By The Associated Press.
SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., May 21.—Although immigration from Asia now is prohibited, a little tide of yellow humanity still flows back and forth through the Angel Island immigration station in San Francisco bay.

And "Koon Yum," the goddess of mercy, angel of Angel Island, still watches over it.

Starting her 25th year at her self-appointed tasks of comfort and cheer, Miss Katharine Maurer, Methodist deaconess, sees no likelihood that the need for service will cease any time soon.

Wedded Via Pictures
It was during the era of Japanese "picture brides" that Miss Maurer came to Angel Island. Uncle Sam received the bewildered young girls—as he receives all immigrants at this port—in a great bare room on Angel Island and there they waited, idle and anxious, for the husbands they had chosen sight unseen.

The picture bride arrangement was abolished in 1924 and oriental immigration laws have been constantly tightened to the point of almost total exclusion. Nevertheless, there are always from 75 to 200 persons in detention on Angel Island, some are headed this way, claiming right of entry, as American citizens, and others are awaiting deportation.

Among this uneasy and often frightened lot Miss Maurer makes her daily rounds and justifies the title of "Koon Yum" which succulent Chinese arrivals have bestowed on her.

Mittens for little fingers headed back toward cold lands, warm clothes for mothers, shirts and socks for penniless men, paper-bound Gospels, toys and odds and ends come in an astonishing stream from her gift boxes.

Speaks Chinese
"Have to go back to Hong Kong? Ah, too bad!" she will say to a father and son sitting dejectedly in one of the inspection "cages." And on most subjects she can add a few words in Chinese or Japanese.

Sometimes the tedious wait in restricted quarters runs into months, so Koon Yum must help her charges while away the time.

English lessons make up part of the routine and she teaches such hand work as weaving, knitting or woodcarving.

"Yes, we still have Oriental immigration," says Edward L. Haff, district director of immigration. "Ninety per cent of our cases consist of persons who claim American citizenship. Chinese and Japanese born in this country sometimes are taken back home, then decide to return to America."

"Some American citizens of Oriental race go back to Asia and marry. Their wives can't enter America but their children can."

'ESTATES' CASE FINALLY ENDS

Supreme Court Sustains Reversal of Snypp's Conviction of Security Law Violation.

By The Associated Press.
XENIA, O., May 21.—Ohio's famous "ancient estates" case apparently was closed today, with the Ohio supreme court sustaining an appellate court reversal of the conviction on a charge of violating the state security law of Francis E. Snypp, self-styled genealogist and "investigator" for various Ohio heirs corporations.

Two more indictments still stood against the retired, elderly Osborn undertaker, but informed sources said Greene County Prosecutor Marcus McAllister probably would not press them after losing what he regarded as the strongest case. They charge fraud and exaggeration of the values of "ancient estates" securities. Snypp allegedly sold, and revolved around the question of existence or non-existence of pioneer estates supposed to be worth millions of dollars.

The supreme court said proper review in Columbus of the conviction on the ground that he had merely acted as a clerk and had no part in the actual sale of the certificates.

The "ancient estates" case, four years in Ohio courts and the U. S. supreme court, started here when the county auditor's office announced that the $30 "membership certificates" in heirs' groups were subject to personal property tax.

Theodore Tangeman, then director of commerce, conducted an intensive investigation and obtained an injunction in Xenia against the international corporation of Bozardus, Cox, Edwards, Baker, and Springer heirs, to prevent it from selling membership certificates. Other securities in Ohio. Tangeman accused the corporation of obtaining money under false pretenses to finance a scheme involving liquidation of mythical taxes.

Snypp and McClain Caterlin, Brazil, Ind., farmer and former president of the corporation, were indicted in January, 1932, on two counts charging violation of the state blue sky law.

Caterlin was convicted, sentenced to five years in prison, fined $2,000. He was paroled after the one-year maximum and never paid the fine.
